NORTHERN OHIO HIT

Fear Felt For Safety Of Two Duck Hunters In Lake Region

Weather observers, Tuesday, predicted colder temperatures would follow a windstorm that swept Circleville, Pickaway County and central Ohio during the night. The temperature which reached a high of 68 degrees Monday afternoon fell to 38 at night.

Rain, which totalled .18 of an inch preceded the wind which did considerable damage in parts of the county. Insurance company men were busy Tuesday answering calls and checking damage done. Many barns were unroofed, some sheds were forced off their foundations, and fodder was scattered over the countryside.

Northern Ohio bore the brunt of the windstorm as gales reaching a speed of 60 miles per hour grounded planes at Cleveland airport, caused thousands of dollars damage and resulted in the death of one person and the possible death of two others.

Leonard Shurts, Finch Lake resort operator, died of a heart attack when the wind tore the door from his daughter's home in Toledo.

Searching parties, hampered by rough waters and heavy swells in Lake Erie, failed to locate two duck hunters, Charlie Lemle and Robert Hayes, both of Toledo, who did not return home last night.

The Toledo filtration plant faced a water shortage when the wind, blowing water from the Maumee River into the lake, caused the (Continued on Page Two)

ELECTORS MEET DECEMBER 16 TO CAST OHIO VOTE

COLUMBUS, Nov. 12—The 26 Democratic presidential electors chosen by Ohio voters on November 5 will meet in the state senate chamber on December 16 to formally cast the state's vote for President Roosevelt and Vice President-Elect Henry A. Wallace. Secretary of State George M. Caffery announced today.

The electors will be polled by the secretary of state who will then transmit the vote to the president of the U. S. senate. In the presence of the senate and house of representatives in Washington, the president of the senate will open the certificates from each state and the electoral vote will be counted.

GREEKS CLAIM GREAT VICTORY

Toll Of 9,000 Italians Reported In Central Front Battle

BUDAPEST, Nov. 12—Italian artillery and Fascist dive-bombers have begun to pound Greek positions along the entire Albanian border preparatory to a giant offensive, according to front-line reports reaching Budapest today.

ATHENS—A terrific British bombing attack on the chief Albanian port of Durazzo, where huge quantities of Italian explosives were destroyed, was revealed by authorities in Athens today.

The RAF attack was carried out during the night, and destroyed a depot for storing explosives and combustibles.

After the raid, it was stated, huge fires rose above Durazzo, visible for 100 miles.

ATHENS, Nov. 12—A great new victory for Greek forces on the central front was claimed in Athens today as Grecian authorities estimated more than 9,000 Italians have been killed, wounded or captured.

RADIO DISTRESS CALL PICKED UP FROM STEAMER

NEW YORK, Nov. 12—The 1,925-ton British steamer Belmore early today sent out an S. O. S. radio distress call reporting that she was sinking in the North Atlantic 400 miles west of the Irish coast.

The terse message from the steamer, intercepted in New York by Mackay Radio, reported: "We are almost gone. Seventeen men are still aboard and there are no lifeboats. Do your best."

The radio call gave the ship's position as approximately latitude 52 degrees north, longitude 17 degrees west, but did not state the nature of the Belmore's trouble.

(Editor's Note: The German high command today reported the sinking of a British vessel by Nazi bombers 300 miles west of Ireland. A Berlin communique estimated the size of the vessel between 2,500 and 3,000 tons.)

Today's S. O. S. was the second call from the sinking steamer. Last night a brief message was picked up reporting her distress, and stating that the life boats had been swamped.

44,000 BRITISH HELD
LONDON, Nov. 12—Approximately 44,000 British troops are being held prisoners of war in Italy and Germany, War Secretary Anthony Eden told the House of Commons today. Eden has just returned from an inspection tour of British defenses in the middle east.

GEORGIA BOY FOUND DEAD

Child Located Two Miles From Home Of Parents

CARTERSVILLE, Ga., Nov. 12—Two-year-old Murray Upshaw, Jr., who mysteriously disappeared Friday noon from the farm home of his parents 15 miles north of Cartersville, was found dead today.

It could not be determined immediately whether the sandy-haired child had died of exposure or had been slain.

Three searchers—Joel Parker, Horace McMichen and Ed Black—came on the body lying face downward about two miles east of his parents' home.

McMichen and Black remained with the body while Parker rushed to the Upshaw home to announce the discovery.

Sheriff George Gaddis and Coroner H. W. Hendricks, accompanied by other officers and a large group of citizens who had searched the hills and woodlands of that section day and night for four days, left immediately for the scene.

An inquest will be held at the spot where the baby's body was found.

European Bulletins

CORFU—Italian airplanes flew low over the fields of this Greek island today, machine-gunning men, women and children. The island had four air raid alarms during the day.

ROME—Italian submarines torpedoed a British warship and two merchant ships in the mid-Mediterranean, the Fascist high command announced today. The warships, part of a large naval squadron, was attacked on Saturday night, and two torpedoes, and possibly a third, struck the ship on the stern, said a communique.

CAIRO—Large fires were started in the Italian port of Naples as the result of Saturday's bombing raid, the British middle east high command disclosed today. During the last 24 hours, British bombers attacked the key Fascist supply bases of Assab, Keren, Tekezan, Agordat, and some unnamed bases in Eritrea, a communique reported.

BERLIN—The official German news agency DNB reported from Bucharest that Romanian Premier Ion Antonescu will depart for Rome today, arriving at the Italian capital on Thursday for talks with high Fascist officials. He will be accompanied by Foreign Minister M. Sturdza and Press Chief Constant, the dispatch said.

LONDON—British bombers attacked submarine bases and air-dromes in German-held territory yesterday, but made no attacks against the Reich during the night owing to bad weather.

JURY HITS FAMED SKATER IN VERDICT FOR $77,113

NEW YORK, Nov. 12—Skater Sonja Henie today took a financial spill that was more disastrous than any she ever experienced on ice when a jury decided she owes Dennis Scanlon, a St. Paul sports promoter, $77,113.44.

That sum, contained in a sealed verdict opened today, was awarded in Scanlon's suit in which he contended that under an oral agreement he made with Sonja in 1936, he was to receive a percentage of all of the blonde skater's movie earnings. In addition to the $77,113.44, Scanlon will get a cut on Sonja's next picture for which she is currently under contract.

BRITAIN TO GET 13 FORTRESSES

War Department Discloses Plan To Provide More Aid For London

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12—Thirteen of Boeing's "flying fortress" bombers will be delivered to Great Britain this month, War Department sources said today.

The Boeing Aircraft Co., Seattle, Wash., is scheduled to produce 28 of the 22 ton air giants during November, and in accordance with President Roosevelt's recently announced "rule of thumb" procedure the British are to get half of these, department officials said. The planes which England will get are the B-17-C type, the latest so far produced by the company, although the army has on order still later types which are expected to come off the assembly lines early next year.

The B-17-C, with a cruising range of between 3,000 and 4,000 miles, is a speedier, more streamlined type than the earlier Boeing "flying fortresses."

War department sources said that the planes probably will be delivered somewhere in Canada, but would not speculate as to whether the British recipients would attempt to fly them to Europe or crate them for ocean shipping.

OHIO SOLONS MAY MEET SOON FOR BUSINESS TALKS

COLUMBUS, Nov. 12—House and Senate leaders will be called into conference soon to discuss plans for the 94th General Assembly, Gov. John W. Bricker announced today.

The new legislature convenes on the first Monday in January, the sixth. Governor Bricker said he hoped the session would be "a very short one."

"All state departments are in pretty good shape," said the governor at his first press conference since his re-election last Tuesday. "I can't think of any major legislation needed."

Bricker will be sworn in as governor for the second term on January 13. There will be no elaborate inaugural ceremony, he said. He will take the oath in the executive office in the presence of a few friends. Chief Justice Carl V. Weygant, of the state supreme court, probably will administer the oath.

Other state officers elected last week also will be sworn in at their own offices, the governor understood.

Late this month, possibly on November 28, Bricker will visit the Ohio national guard in training at Camp Shelby, Miss.

Berlin Predicts New Axis Front Will Be Formed

Russian Commissar Meets Hitler In Reich Chancellory For First Time; Closer Cooperation To Be Stressed

TURKEY MAY BE DISCUSSED

Official Circles Silent Regarding Exact Nature Of Proposals To Be Offered; Clash Of Ideologies Important

BERLIN, Nov. 12—Marking the beginning of what Nazi officialdom hoped would be a united totalitarian front against the democracies Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler today received Soviet Premier and Foreign Commissar V. M. Molotov.

Hitler received Molotov and the assistant Soviet foreign commissar, M. Dekanosov, in the Reich chancellory. The Soviet leaders were presented to the Fuehrer by German Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop.

The conversations between Hitler and the Soviet leaders started at 3:45 p. m. German time.

A guard of honor composed of Hitler's own life guards was drawn up in front of the chancellory as the Soviet leaders arrived.

It represents the first time Hitler has personally met a leader of the Soviet regime.

It is also the first time a high ranking leader of Soviet Russia has visited Nazi Germany.

Germany hopes that the meeting between Hitler and Molotov will result in closer cooperation between Soviet Russia and the axis powers in the establishment of a "new order" in Europe.

Official quarters predicted that the conversations now under way will result in political developments of world-wide significance.

One of the first results of the meeting is expected to be a reconsideration by Turkey of her policy of close cooperation with Great Britain.

Although official quarters were reticent concerning the exact nature of the proposals which Reichsfuehrer Hitler may make to Molotov, it was said that the Soviet premier's presence in Berlin is in itself sufficient to indicate that developments of the utmost importance are under way.

The Germans feel there is reason to believe that before Molotov and his large entourage of experts leave Berlin, some sort of concrete demonstration will transpire linking the Reich and Soviet Russia to a common goal before the eyes of the world.

It was frankly admitted here that the clash of ideologies between Nazism and Communism still remains, but officials pointed out that realistic politics have been the keynote of axis diplomacy and the axis has no intention of letting ideals interfere with cold and vital facts.

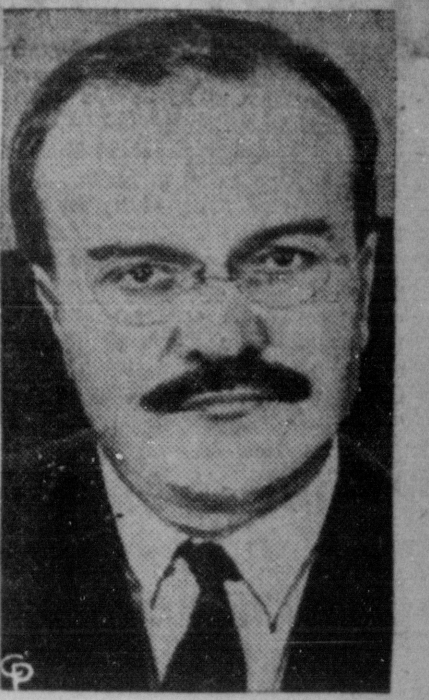

Hitler's conversations with Molotov are expected therefore to be most thorough and to cover both present and future problems with the aim of placing relations between the Reich and Soviet Russia on the broadest, soundest and most flexible basis.

Informed quarters here are convinced that one of the first effects of Molotov's visit will be a reconsideration by Turkey of her (Continued on Page Two)

'MADMAN' ASSAULTS TWO OF LEADING PORTEGESE

LISBON, Nov. 12—The Archbishop of Aveiro was wounded and a grandson of General Antonio Carmona, president of Portugal, was seriously injured today when an unidentified man assaulted the two as they entered the Colonial building.

First police reports did not state how the attack was carried out and merely referred to the assailant as a "madman." The victims of the attack were attending the sessions of the Colonial Congress.

BLAST IN HOME KILLS CHILD, 6, AT WILKESVILLE

ATHENS, O., Nov. 12—A six-year-old child was burned to death and her parents and a brother seriously burned today when coal oil which was being used to kindle a kitchen fire exploded, engulfing their home at Wilkesville, south of Athens in Vinton County, in flames.

The victim of the blaze was Norma Jean McMillan, Her mother, Mrs. Carl McMillan, was painfully burned and was taken to White Cross hospital in Columbus in serious condition.

Also burned were the father and a son, Homer, 18. Another daughter, Mary Ruth, 16, suffered cuts on her legs and body when she kicked out a window in another room and led two other children, Max, 14 and Dale, 10, to safety.

The father told authorities his wife Norma Jean, Homer and himself were in the kitchen when the coal oil exploded. The father and son beat out the flames which engulfed Mrs. McMillan but were unable to save the child.

Mrs. McMillan, according to White Cross hospital attaches, suffered burns over her entire body. She was not expected to live.

Homer was burned on the body while McMillan was burned on the hands and face. Their condition was described as "good."

The home was destroyed by the resulting blaze.

present policy of close cooperation with Great Britain.

Molotov and members of his party arrived at Berlin's Anhalter station at 11 a. m. (5 a. m. Circleville time). They were greeted by German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop, Gen. Wilhelm Keitel, German chief of staff, and other prominent Reich government and military officials.

Hitler received Molotov at 3 p. m. (9 a. m. EST).

This evening Von Ribbentrop will hold a gala reception for the Russian statesman and his party at the Kaiserhof Hotel.

Molotov's arrival at Berlin was marked by a "strictly business" reception—in marked contrast to the extravagant Nazi showmanship that has accompanied visit of other important foreign statesmen to the Reich.

Flags Lacking

Although official formalities were carried out with punctilious dispatch, the flags that usually decorate Berlin on such occasions were lacking and there were no massed thousands along the route from the railway station to Molotov's Berlin residence.

Significance attached to the Hitler-Molotov conference by Germany was made unmistakably clear by comment published in Diplomatic Correspondence, the organ of the German foreign office. Welcoming Molotov, this article hailed the talk as the inauguration of new political developments of worldwide importance and added that it is now evident Germany, Italy, Russia and Japan are "now ready to respect each other's interests fully."

Since the European war began, this commentary added, German-Russian cooperation has proved "fruitful to both partners."

It added that this cooperation between Berlin and Moscow was based on a "conservative program," execution of which was secured through common conviction that "friendly, trusting relations should become a solid and permanent basis of German-Russian policy."

Diplomatic Correspondence added that a similar policy will be continued after the war is over. While he is in Berlin Molotov will reside at Chancellor's Hitler's guest house, Bellevue Castle, situated at the end of Berlin's famous Tiergarten.

Police Fill Streets

Streets leading to the castle from the Anhalter station were heavily cordoned by police as Molotov was escorted to his temporary residence.

When Molotov reached the German border station of Malkinia last night he was greeted by Nazi authorities.

His arrival on German soil was seized by the government as an opportunity to call on European nations to line up with the axis and to warn the United States that it would have to acquiesce to a "new order" in the old world.

COUNTY SCHOOLS TO VIEW FILMS ON TUBERCULOSIS

W. J. Smith of the State Department of Health will begin next Monday to show films on tuberculosis to schools throughout the county in connection with the county's health program.

The two films, about an hour long, will be shown prior to a county-wide testing program, which will start in the county schools December 2, and in the city schools, December 9. The skin test will be performed by Dr. Smith, assisted by Dr. A. D. Blackburn, county health commissioner, and Miss Margaret Hunsicker, county health nurse.

Monday, the films will be shown at Darby Township school at 8:45, at Monroe Township school at 10:30, at Ashville at 1 p. m., and at Commercial Point at 2:30.

river to drop nine feet below normal.

Worst In 16 Years

At Sandusky tops of garages were blown off and lake steamers were forced into port as the city experienced its worst windstorm since the tornado of 1924.

A policeman was injured at Akron when a flagpole snapped off and struck him on the head.

In most cities today the mercury stood just above the freezing mark of 32 degrees, and was expected to rise during the day but drop tonight.

The temperature in Columbus and central Ohio was 59 yesterday when the high wind, which reached a peak of 62 miles per hour, roared out of the snow-covered plains states.

Widespread damage was reported as the wind lifted roofs from buildings, blew down trees and wires and shattered windows.

Fire and police departments in Columbus were flooded with calls by persons reporting damage. A number of parked cars were damaged when a section of the roof on the Central Y. W. C. A. building was blown off.

Also in the capital other autos parked in the downtown section were damaged when the top of a water tower was hurled into the street from the roof of a building.

At Dublin, north of Columbus, William Bell, 60, Amlin, O., and Robert West, 55, of Waynesburg, Pa., were injured when high wind caused their car to careen into a truck.

Police at Defiance roped off the area surrounding St. Paul's Methodist church when wind weakened its 145-foot spire.

Many streets in Columbus and other cities were dark as lighting systems failed.

CHILLICOTHE, Nov. 12—Repair crews of the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Company arrived today to repair damage resulting from Monday's windstorm. Several sections of the city were without power and light for a short time and line breaks occurred in rural sections.

Kingston was hard hit with power lines there being put out of commission as the high wind snapped poles of the Ohio Midland Power Co.

ROMANIAN QUAKE TOLL MOUNTS TOWARD 2,000

BUCHAREST, Nov. 12—The death toll in earthquake-devastated Romania mounted steadily toward the 2,000 mark today as the gradual reestablishment of communications brought in fresh reports from all parts of the stricken nation.

New earth shocks, which rocked the country yesterday for the second time in 24 hours, resulted in at least 100 more dead, a check on the damaged cities disclosed today.

Demolition and rescue work in Bucharest was greatly hampered during the night by many large fires that swept through the quake-smashed buildings. Broken water mains made doubly difficult the task of controlling the raging fires.

SHERIFF ASKS AID

Sheriff Charles Radcliff, Tuesday, warned residents of Pickaway County to watch for persons posing as stove-repair men, who go from house to house soliciting business, and charge exorbitant prices for their services. The Girl Scouts of Troop 4 met November 8 in Memorial Hall.

First we studied a song by Mozart and eventually formed our horseshoe. The business meeting then took place. There were 16 scouts present. Every week some requirement will be worked out and it is important that each scout be present. We are now working as a group on the mistle badge, working out a dance to one of Stephen Foster's songs, "Jeanie with the Light Brown Hair."

The meeting closed with the Friendship Circle.

"The Pageant of the Flags" will be presented by a group of scouts before members of a local sorority. It was first presented at the Investiture Ceremony in July. Those who are to take part are requested to be at Mary Ellen Fissell's home, North Pickaway Street, at 8 p. m. Tuesday to go to the sorority meeting.

begun immediately after the explosion. Picked crews combed through the rubble of brick and steel and splintered woodwork piled in crazy quilt confusion where the factory building once stood.

ALLENTOWN, Pa., Nov. 12—Three men were killed today when a terrific explosion shattered a building in which they were working on the 500-acre plant of the Trojan Powder Company on the outskirts of Allentown.

No other persons were injured and damage was estimated by John Bronstein, treasurer of the company, at $3,000 to $4,000.

Cause of the detonation was not learned, but both Bronstein and Coroner Alexander M. Peters, of Lehigh County, rejected theories of sabotage.

"It was just one of those unfortunate accidents," Bronstein quoted the coroner as saying following a preliminary investigation.

The victims were working in connection with the company's normal explosive activities and had nothing to do with munitions work, Bronstein explained.

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Nov. 12—Three dynamite plant workmen were killed today in an unexplained explosion that destroyed a small building of the Burton Explosives Company at Edinburg, seven miles distant.

The blast obliterated the gelatine packing house where the victims were wrapping dynamite, shook houses in the district and "knocked out" a Cleveland-Pittsburgh telegraph cable that passes near the plant.

The plant's several hundred employees were sent home for the day. Authorities said there was nothing to indicate the cause to be other than accidental.

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 12—Sabotage of machinery at the Todd shipyard in West Seattle was reported under investigation today by the Federal Bureau of Investigation and King County prosecutor's office.

While the FBI declined comment, Prosecutor B. Gray Warner confirmed that he launched an inquiry after five vital heavy machines apparently had been deliberately damaged. The shipyard is engaged in converting two liners into navy transports.

Emery dust and water glass has been placed in the costly big drills and lathes of the Todd plant during the last few weeks and caused thousands of dollars damage, Warner said.

WILDCATS TO BE READY TO MEET HARMON'S MEN

EVANSTON, Ill., Nov. 12—Despite a number of minor injuries suffered against Illinois last week, Northwestern's Wildcats were expected today to be at full strength for Saturday's clash with Michigan.

Only Don Kruger, reserve quarterback, may be unable to face the Wolverines.

GIRL RETURNS HOME

Miss Bernice Whitson, 15-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Whitson, East Main Street, who disappeared from home Saturday about 10 p. m., has been found and returned to her home, Sheriff Charles Radcliff announced Tuesday. Sheriff's officers found the girl at the home of friends in Scioto Township Monday night. The case is still being investigated, the sheriff said.

ASHVILLE

By S. D. Fridley
Ashville, Phone 79

John Hoover of the Capital City, a son of the late Pickaway County treasurer, Willis Hoover, was here visiting old friends and school mates. He is now associated with his brother, Walter, in the drug business in the East section of that city. He told us of the many changes which has come about here since he and his bunch of high powered youngsters made life miserable for the law enforcement officials, especially the marshal. Said he graduated in 1907 while Stanley Lawrence was superintendent. Among his class were Doctor Rokey, Rev. Elmer Swoyer, Ira Hoover, Walter Hedges, Gordon Hickie, Mrs. Herb Swoyer, Lillian Johnson Doherty.

According to reports a few of our resident will be shifting around this week in new location. . . The large, 4.16 turnip displayed in the front window at "Brink's" is not a native product, it being grown in Kingston by Squire Walker and brought here by A. W. Graham who is an N. & W. employee and always awake to everything about him. . .

Among those from a distance attending the funeral of Mrs. Clara Plum, Saturday, were Rev. Walter Peters and wife of Convey, Van Wert County. . . Mrs. Laura Messick, 88, who has been visiting with her son in Columbus for some time, is a resident of Ashville again occupying her own home on Long Street. . . Another 88-er we met the other day out raking leaves, was David Finney who has been a resident here and of the community for many years. He is quite active for one of his age. . . The local school board will be in session Tuesday evening.

Who's Who in AHS Basketball

The bustling Broncos of Ashville High are gradually rounding into shape for their initial encounter of the season this Friday night with Stoutsville, the game to be played in the home gymnasium.

A large squad of hopefuls answered the first call for practice and since that time the boys have been taking on ability and putting off weight and it is expected that by Friday each and every one of them will be "rarin' to go."

From last year's team there are several players back—Warren Swisher, Bill Cloud, Jack Foreman, Lawrence Nance, Eugene Wilson and Harold Reese, all of whom won their letters. Looks pretty good so far doesn't it? Well, read this—there are five others who are making a strong bid for regular places on the team. These are Ralph Mahaffey, here from West Union where he earned his "W", Elmer Neff, elongated sophomore, William "Tack" Pettibone, fast little fellow, Harold Meyers, rugged performer, and Paul Pettibone a boy with plenty of height.

There are still others out for places on the first string squad and may squeeze out some of these who have designs on first team positions. Billy Arthur, Bill Cain, Charles Counts, Ray Kraft, George ed or captured in a spectacular series of Fascist reverses.

One Italian division has been routed, authorities said, and a second has been trapped. Fascist troops were reported in flight along the entire battle zone.

This morning's Greek war communiqué said that many Italian soldiers and much war material had been captured and told of intensive aerial activity.

Reports received in Athens claimed that the Greek forces in Albania are threatening to "annihilate" the remnants of an Italian military base at Koritza. The Hellenic warriors were said to have surrounded both Fascist flanks in this region and were reported "hammering the last Italian line of resistance."

Howja like the winter weather of the last few days? Ashville temperatures have gone down to marks like 24 and 26 which seems mighty cool and feels mighty cool, too, but apparently this section is getting off easy if 24 is the low, for other places rather close by are quoting much lower marks. For instance, talked with a fellow from Waverly the other day and he quoted an 18 for Saturday morning last. Well, we can't complain when we read about the two above at Edmonton, Canada, and the snowstorms of the northern states.

PARKED CAR BLAMED FOR ACCIDENT ON ROUTE 23

William Ijans, 1898 Summit Street, Columbus, was treated in Berger Hospital Monday at 10 p.m. for a fracture of the left arm received when the automobile in which he was riding collided with a car that was parked on the Scioto Trail, north of Circleville, without lights. The parked auto belonged to Lester Large, Chillicothe Route 1. The name of the driver of the auto in which Ijans was riding was not learned.

FOOTBALL TEAM
HEARS ADDRESS
BY OHIO COACH

Godfrey Discusses Many Of Game's Features,
Shows Film

KIWANIANS ARE HOSTS

Need For "Brain", Speed
And Courage Cited By Buckeye Mentor

"Football" is definitely a team game. Three requisites for a football player are "brains," speed and courage. Any high school football team that can block and tackle can win games. The punt is football's most effective weapon. A coach should waste no time getting rid of a boy who is participating in football solely because of a selfish motive.

Those were a few of the thoughts left Monday evening by Line Coach E. R. (Ernie) Godfrey of Ohio State University when he addressed the annual Kiwanis Club football banquet in Hanley's tearoom. Coaches Roy Black and Tom Armstrong and lettermen of the high school plus team managers were guests of the Kiwanians. About 75 persons were present to enjoy the evening, a turkey dinner and Coach Godfrey's interesting address.

Coach Black, in introducing his lettermen, declared that hopes are high for next year's team with many boys who gained experience this year returning for another year of action. He announced election of Robert Brown and Clark Martin, senior center and right guard, as co-captains of the 1940 team.

Talk Interesting

Coach Godfrey, with 25 years of experience in the coaching game, delivered the most interesting football talk heard in Circleville in many years. He spoke briefly concerning the generalities of the game, then showed the complete movie of one of Ohio's football games, pointing out various good points and various mistakes as the play was unfolded.

It was after the movie that Coach Godfrey kept his listeners on the edge of their chairs when he went into a long discussion of the game of football and its trials and tribulations. He invited questions and answered all that were fired at him.

The coach said that loss of Jimmy Strausbaugh of Chillicothe with an ankle injury just before the opening game had cost Ohio State, the mentor declaring that the losses charged to Ohio might not have been defeats if Strausbaugh had been able to "carry the mail" as he did last year. He said that the senior gridders had not fully recovered from his injury.

He paid tribute to several members of the team, and mourned the loss of Frank Zadowney, 1939's great blocking halfback, as one that cannot be replaced.

"Movement To South"

Coach Godfrey discussed at length the movement of northern boys to southern schools, and declared that his "proselyting" is kicking back, several goods boys returning to Ohio State this year after starting to schools in the South. He referred to Huston, a great guard from Massillon who started at Tennessee and then enrolled at Ohio State, and Zimmerman, another lineman, who went to Duke and then came back to Ohio. He said that this trend to the South has been changed somewhat, but that eastern schools had started to invade Ohio's high schools to obtain some of the most outstanding material.

The coach spoke of Ohio's quest for athletic material that is "brainy". He referred to several members of an Ohio high school team of last year who could not even read speeches that had been written for them. Two boys from this team are enrolled at Tennessee now, he said.

"We don't want boys of this type," Godfrey said.

He went on to refer to Wesley Fesler, Dick Larkins, Esco Sarkinen, Ralph Wolf, Trevor Rees and several others as outstanding examples of "smart" football players who made good because they had "brains," speed and courage.

Dan McClain, in charge of the program, presided during the evening. He introduced several guests, among them being Donald Duval of Ashville, winner of the trophy in Pumpkin Show competition for the healthiest boy in Pickaway County. He also presented a watch to George Helwagen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Helwagen, a sophomore manager, a birthday gift

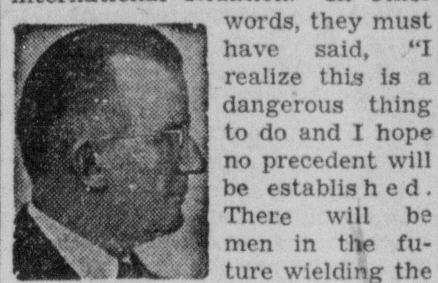

PETTENGILL

AMEND THE CONSTITUTION

It is unfortunate that the third term tradition could not be discussed strictly on its merits. It was caught in the thicket of other issues, personalities and party loyalties. The principle itself during these recent weeks has been something like shingling a roof. You can't do it when it is raining and in dry weather it's not necessary.

Now that the shouting is over it should be possible to re-examine the question freed from other issues and the prestige of party and personality. President Roosevelt has indicated that he will not be a candidate for a fourth term. An amendment to the Constitution of the United States placing a limit on the period which any President may serve would therefore not be directed against him.

Millions of people must have voted for President Roosevelt with great reluctance so far as the third term principle is concerned, but felt impelled to put it aside for the moment on account of the international situation. In other words, they must have said, "I realize this is a dangerous thing to do and I hope no precedent will be established. There will be men in the future wielding the Presidency against whom we ought to bar the door in order that we may not have an American Diaz or an American Hitler."

PETTENGILL vast power of the Presidency against whom we ought to bar the door in order that we may not have an American Diaz or an American Hitler.

In addition, there are, of course, the millions who voted to uphold the third term principle despite international conditions. Based upon the Gallup polls before the campaign a great majority of the American people believe that the non-third-term tradition is a safeguard to free institutions. That being the case, the Judiciary Committee of the Senate in the next Congress ought to report out a resolution to amend the Constitution, placing a limit upon the tenure of the Presidency.

Under the practice prescribed by the Constitution the proposed amendment would have to receive the approval of two-thirds of each House of Congress. It does not require any action by the President although, of course, if President Roosevelt were to recommend it, it would carry great weight.

At present two resolutions to amend the Constitution are pending in the United States Senate. One calls for a single Presidential term of six years. The other places a limit of no more than two terms of four years each, —no third term.

A good argument can be made for either proposal as against the other, but the exact form of the proposal is relatively unimportant in contrast with the principle itself, which is to place some limit upon the tenure of the Presidential office.

In behalf of one term of six years we have two great precedents to go by. One is that the Constitutional Convention of 1787 favored until the closing days of its session a single term of seven years. The other is the Constitution of the Confederate States of America which prescribed that the President should serve for six years and be ineligible for reelection. It is true also that arguments made against a third term can also be made against a second term. The vast power of patronage and the control of public opinion now inherent in the Presidency, can be used to secure a second term as well as a third. Moreover, it is urged with great force that if a President knows that he can serve only one term he will devote his entire effort to the service of the country rather than placating politicians of his own party and the pressure groups of the country to insure a second nomination and election.

It was argued before the Senate Committee by the President of Lafayette College of Pennsylvania, that one of the things which has brought politics into such disrepute, especially with American youth, is that a President, during his first term, is constantly scheming for his own re-nomination, and then in the campaign for the second election gets down into the gutter with corrupt city machines and thus tarnishes the greatest office in the world.

On the other hand, consider an amendment providing that any future President having served two terms shall be ineligible to from his grandfather, George M. Fitzpatrick.

Brief remarks were made by Co-Captains Bob Brown and Clark Martin during the evening.

Here's Official
Number List
For Draft

Editor's Note: Starting Tuesday, The Daily Herald will publish each day a number of names, Serial and Order Numbers of Pickaway Countians who registered under the Selective Service Act. This list is the official one as announced by the Draft Board. In the publication will be the name, serial and order number of each man who registered. In the list below the first number listed is the Serial Number; the second is the Order Number. For instance, Emery R. Rucker registered. After the registration was completed the local Draft Board shuffled the names and conducted its draw. Rucker was given No. 1 Serial Number. Later the federal government conducted its lottery in Washington, and Rucker's No. 1 was the 517th Pickaway County number drawn from the glass bowl. So he will be the 517th in the order to receive his questionnaire the answers on which will decide whether he will be ordered into service for a year. In each instance below, the first number is the Serial Number and the second one is the Order Number, the order in which the registrant will be asked to fill his questionnaire.

FAIRFIELD COUNTIAN, 23,
TO FACE ARSON CHARGE

LANCASTER, Nov. 12 — Fairfield County officers Tuesday were holding 23-year-old John William Stebelton, Lancaster, Route 6, on charges of arson after he allegedly confessed setting fire to a barn on the Phil Huber farm, a mile south of Hamburg.

Damage from the blaze, which leveled the barn and destroyed livestock, machinery, grain, hay and straw, was estimated at $3,000. Deputy Sheriff Ed I. Moore and W. D. Hines, Lancaster, state deputy fire marshal, said Stebelton confessed to them in the county jail that he had fired the barn after the first attempt proved unsuccessful. Stebelton said he drove his automobile around the barn shortly before midnight Sunday and threw matches in the soybeans, then drove to Hamburg to "get a drink and wait for the fire." When the attempt failed, he returned and lighted the hay inside the barn.

LADINO CLOVER OF BENEFIT TO FARM MEADOWS

Pickaway County farmers who are looking for a clover to improve seed mixtures to produce meadow and pasture should try Ladino clover, County Agent F. K. Blair recommends.

Ladino clover is a perennial and will survive over a period of years while red clover of alkali clover die either at the end of the second or the first year. Ladino clover, however, should not be used in Ohio in pure stands nor for meadows that are to be left only one year or that are to be maintained over a period of several years. Rather it should be used in pasture mixtures or in meadows which are to be grazed for a year or two after a hay crop has been removed. It will produce crops of hay but does not yield as heavily as red clover and it is not as satisfactory as alfalfa for meadows to be maintained several years.

The clover has a white blossom and the plant is more tolerant of lime deficiency in soil than are the other white clovers, although it is not as drought resistant as Louisiana white clover.

In seeding meadows where the second growth is to be pastured, it is recommended that seed mixtures of six pounds alfalfa, three pounds of timothy and one pound of Ladino clover be used. The Ladino clover withstands considerable crowding by other plants in grass mixtures.

DIRECT PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION

SENATOR LODGE of Massachusetts has started a movement to abolish the "electoral college" by which our presidents are theoretically chosen. The proposal has been discussed off and on for more than a century; in fact, Thomas Jefferson advocated it as early as the year 1801. It could be done by amending the Constitution in the usual manner.

This electoral device seemed reasonable at first. But no one pretends any more that the college of "electors" chosen by the states, equalling in number every state's combined senators and representatives in Congress, really does the electing. For a century or more it has not been a free agent, but has merely registered the popular choices of the voters in the various states for the presidential candidates. And even this procedure has not clearly indicated the popular will of the nation, because it has occasionally put in the presidential office candidates who, though having a majority of electoral votes, lacked a popular majority of the whole country.

Increasingly our people have felt that if this nation is really a democracy, its executive power should be exercised by a President having a true majority of the votes cast by the citizens of the nation. Then it could never be said that he did not represent the popular will.

DOG-FIGHT MORE PEACEFUL?

AN Australian flyer finds that there are adventures on land as well as in the air. His plane was in a group of raiders heading southwest over England when something went wrong and he was forced to bail out.

He landed with some force in a potato field and was at once surrounded by a bevy of Land Girls armed with sticks and farm tools, including one pitch fork. Fortunately he was able to convince them that he was a friend, for he soon had to defend himself from a Home Guard officer with a rifle.

This peril, too, was surmounted, but it wasn't the end of his troubles.

On the way to the hospital, according to his story, the ambulance took a bend too fast and turned over. He scrambled out with a few bruises and was picked up by a fire engine dashing to the spot where his Spitfire was blazing.

The fire engine rattled off, only to end up—a minute later—in the ditch. After that, the flyer decided to walk.

This yarn is not necessarily true, although we suppose it could be. Anyhow, it has a kind of moral. And there is humor, even in the midst of war.

Our American ideology is a five-letter word starting with U and ending with Y.

Pages From the Diary of An Antiquated Reporter:

Up to another Armistice Day and at the eleventh hour did stand in silent prayer for the soldier dead of the last World War and for the soldiers yet to march to death. Man of today, where is your vaunted intelligence?

John P. O'Brien, chief of the Grace Packing Co., dropped in for an extremely interesting chat about folk and places near and far. A widely traveled man and an observing one, a fine conversationalist. Learned of his childhood in England and about the schools there. Talked of the world of yesterday and today and of what it may be like tomorrow.

Chatted with Legion members and learned of a turkey shoot to be held Sunday afternoon at Memorial Hall. If you fancy yourself with a .22 rifle you may get your Thanksgiving bird for next to nothing. Marksmen may bring their own rifles, the .22 only, and sights must be open, no glass. Good rifles will be provided those who have no guns.

In the evening did go to Memorial Hall to attend the joint Legion-Elks program in celebration of the anniversary of the World War Armistice. A few hundred there, but nothing like the crowd I expected.

Now, to put a slight damper on the day of those who failed to attend. I sat in the balcony, the third row. In the first row I counted 21 kids, both boys and girls, and not one of them more than 12 years of age. Those children did not go there to play. I never saw youngsters more serious. They drank in every word of the speakers, their voices rang the loudest in the singing of patriotic songs. Every one of them was proud to be an American, wished to learn more about the duties that go with citizenship. And I was proud of them. Others I could not see were in the audience. Who can entertain fear for the future of a land where the boys and girls of such tender age are

PERSHING MAY BE DRAFTED

WASHINGTON — The situation inside France is such that there is more and more sentiment among Administration advisers to draft venerable John J. Pershing as American Ambassador to France.

It is believed General Pershing could do a good job because of his old friendship with Marshal Petain, now No. 1 man in the Vichy Government. The two were comrades in arms during the World War, and never do they meet without an affectionate embrace on both cheeks.

But more important than this is the manner in which Marshal Petain is reported to be pulled in two different directions: toward the Germans on one hand, and toward the British on the other.

Chief advocate of friendship with Nazi Germany is Pierre Laval, long France's No. 1 appeaser, who has an inside track with Petain at present. Laval has been carrying on the conversations with Germany which aim to give French air and naval bases to Hitler, and his argument with Petain is reported to be that the British are not to be trusted, that France's future lies entirely with Germany.

On the other hand, Marshall Petain's natural instincts are pro-British and anti-German. Furthermore, these are the natural sympathies of most Frenchmen, including some of his other advisers.

FRENCH IN AFRICA

So at times Petain is reported to be drawn one way by Laval; at other times almost ready to go to Africa and put himself at the head of the French army to lead a campaign against the Italians in Egypt.

Should the French North African army become active on behalf of England, it would mean much not only to the British but to the United States, whose biggest worry concerning the Monroe Doctrine is that a combination of German-Italian forces might use Dakar, French naval base on the bulge of Africa, for operations against Brazil and South America.

That is why "Papa" Pershing is considered so important to influence his old friend "Papa" Petain.

NOTE—General Pershing, 80 years old last September, is not in the best of health, usually spends his winters in Arizona, might suffer during the rigors of a French winter.

WALLACE SEEKS JOB

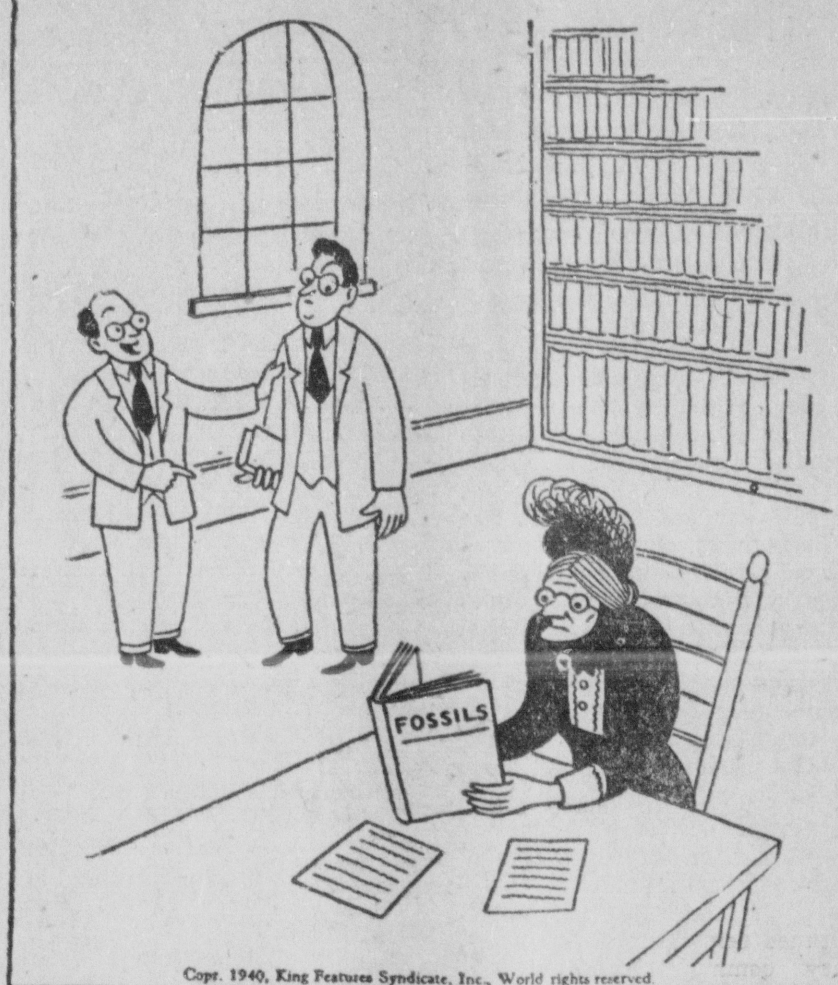

Henry Wallace came back from his hectic vice-presidential campaign looking considerably older. Not many people realized it, but he had been on the electoral warpath continuously since August, making ten to twelve short speeches a day, and five to six major addresses a week.

There was no part of the country which he did not cover, and the surprising showing which Roosevelt made in the farm belt undoubtedly was due in part to Henry Wallace.

Wallace's friends are now urging him to take a vacation. Instead he is looking for a new job to tide him over between now and the time he takes the oath of office as Vice President of the United States.

Beginning then—January 20—Wallace will draw a salary of $15,000. But until then he is hard up. His salary as Sec- (Continued on Page Eight)

Now just see what that did for the trickster in the North. His partner went right to work and made an otherwise impossible contract. The club lead was ruffed in the dummy, the heart 10 being discarded from declarer's hand. Then came a tremendous cross-ruff, with South trumping hearts and North ruffing spades, until finally the hearts were set up. Poor West took only one trick with his diamond A. Had he laid that down at the start, he surely would not then have followed with a club. He would have had to play his heart A next, as the only apparent chance of setting the contract.

CHAPTER TWENTY-TWO

KIT FASTENED a small white bird in the nest of curls piled high on her head. She yanked a strap up on her shoulder, and a hook an inch or so above her waist flew open. "Darn it! Put a pin in, will you, Fran?" Kit's voice was annoyed.

There was a time when so simple a thing as a hook couldn't ruffle Kit's calm. Little things induced storms these days.

"That stain still shows faintly. Why don't you wear another dress?"

"Thanks, Fran. I don't want any advice, please."

Fran's lips were a straight line in her face. Kit didn't see it. She was glancing hurriedly at the clock on her dressing table. "Jerry likes white," she said. "He's a sweet kid. Youthful and romantic. He says the reason he sends me white flowers is because he always thinks of me as his lady in white."

Fran snapped her newspaper expressively. "Are you falling for that sophomore?" she wanted to know.

"He's not a sophomore," Kit said amiably. "He's my employer." "From all I've heard he certainly hasn't got business on his mind when he talks to you. Listen, Kit, I'm getting so worried I hate to go to the grocery store. Every penny I spend reminds me of when we lived on Sullivan street."

Kit sprayed Moment Supreme over her hair. "That wasn't bad. After all, that's where we met. Anyway, you should have heard what Jerry said to me on the telephone at the studio today. He has something important to tell me tonight."

"It had better be, or he won't get out of this place tonight without explaining to me. And I don't mean about his honorable intentions."

Kit laughed. She put a square of white chiffon into a white velvet bag. "Anybody interesting call today? Did Vance call?"

Fran cast a mischievous look at Kit's back. "Vance? Did he? Oh, of course he did. He had some news for ME. Said Lars Anderson, the drummer in Slocum's band, wants to meet me. Imagine! I told him he could bring him over any evening. I said I was usually alone, that you are out with Jerry almost every night."

Glee lighted up Kit's eyes. "You did?" she cried, excitedly. "What did he say to that?"

"Oh, he just said he hoped you were having a good time."

The lamps in Kit's eyes went out. She tossed her head. "You can assure him that I am," she said. To prove that she was having a lovely, exciting time, and to convince Fran of it, she greeted Jerry vivaciously.

"Parties always start with a cocktail," she said. "I've your favorite kind, Jerry."

"Happy days," he said, downing it. "Now, let's be off. I've found a place on the island that I think you'll like, but it's rather a long drive. Would you care to come with us, Miss Le Maze?"

"No, thank you, Mr. Sembler. I suspect that three would be the proverbial crowd. I know that Kit wants to talk to you—alone."

Kit pretended not to see the meaning of the glance that Fran gave her when she said that. "Some other time, perhaps," Kit murmured. "Come along, Jerry."

"Dinner at this place is an experience an epicure remembers," Jerry said, leading her up the steps of a handsome building of the colonial architecture of the old South.

"It looks as if it might be, Jerry. The place is charming."

Kit was quite right. The place was charming. Candle light threw graceful shadows on the high ceilings, on the papered walls, and on the silver and glass gleaming on their table. The voices of the other diners were muted, and soft strains of music floated into the room from the landing on the stairway where a stringed orchestra played.

Jerry ordered a perfect dinner. When it was over, Kit said, "Jerry, I think the time has come to talk about other things than sealing wax and kings. Things we've both put off talking about. We've been putting them off ever since I went to your office Monday."

"You drove business out of my mind completely."

"Now I'm bringing it back," she said, smiling.

"When you get excited, that little bird in your hair wiggles. It's a dove, isn't it?"

Kit bit her lip and struggled to keep her impatience from showing itself. She said, "It's a dove. A talking dove, so be careful what you say. Consider it my chaperone."

Jerry laughed at her nonsense. "It's cute. But I won't swallow that chaperone stuff. You don't need one with me. Besides, chaperones are only for kids."

"Really?"

"Yes, really. Kitty, I not only like that little bird, but I like what's under it, too."

She laughed at him. "Now, who's kidding?"

His face was serious with the impressive seriousness of youth. "I'm not kidding, Kitty. You're exactly the kind of a girl I thought you'd be."

A chill ran along Kit's nerves, because he had said something that reminded her of another face. She saw it in the amber bubbles of her wine glass. It was Vance's face, and his mouth was saying, "That's funny. When I first knew you, I thought you were different. But let's skip it."

She smiled at Jerry over the rim of her glass. Her eyes flirted with him. "What kind of a girl am I, Jerry?"

"Different from any girl I ever knew. I may be young, Kitty, but I've been around a lot . . . known a lot of women."

Kit didn't even smile when she said, "I guess you have."

"Women from all walks of life," he elaborated. "Blondes and brunettes. Girls in colleges and offices . . . and debutantes and married women. Actresses, too."

"With all your experience, I should think you'd find me dull," Kit said, tongue in cheek.

Jerry's face was hurt that she should think that. He said, "Do you know why I like you?"

Kit shook her head.

"Because you—you're a working girl, but you aren't common. You've got a purpose in life, but you aren't a go-getter. You have a career that means a lot to you, but you don't bore everybody to death talking about it. I know what that career means, Kit, and that's one of the reasons why I've fought for—He broke off, looking embarrassed.

"Why you—what, Jerry?" She was quietly insistent.

Jerry lowered his lids over his eyes and toyed for a few minutes with his lighter. "I'll explain that later—maybe. What would you say if I were to tell you that it was because of you, and only because of you, that I made Dad let me take over the radio end of our advertising?"

Kit felt a chill of premonition, but she refused to let it show in her face. Deliberately she forced a bantering note into her voice and a wide, frank smile of comradeship and said, "I'd say that you were making up a speech to make me feel good and that I couldn't possibly believe a word of it."

"You would, would you? Well, maybe I could prove it."

"Maybe you could," she said slyly. But, of course! This was the moment she had been waiting for.

Turney Weldons Observe
Their Silver Anniversary

Friends Meet For Dinner Monday Evening

Mr. and Mrs. N. Turney Weldon of 414 South Court Street, who observed their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary Monday, were honored at a silver anniversary surprise party in the evening by a group of their close friends. A cooperative dinner was served at 7:30 p. m. at the Pickaway Country Club, an informal social evening following.

Lovely arrangements of fall flowers were used in the decorations of the club house. The dinner was served from a buffet table of attractive appointments. Silver bowls filled with floating pompoms alternated with green tapers in silver holders down the center of the long table where the guests were seated for the dinner hour. Trailing green vines on the white cloth continued the color theme, a large three tiered anniversary cake being the interesting centerpiece.

A miniature bride and bridegroom marked the place of Mr. and Mrs. Weldon, appropriate place cards favoring being found at the other covers.

A lovely anniversary gift of silver was presented the honor guests, the names of the donors being inscribed on an enclosed card.

In addition to Mr. and Mrs. Weldon those present were Mr. and Mrs. C. K. Hunsicker, Mr. and A. L. Wilder, Dr. and Mrs. G. L. Hitler, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Orr, Mr. and Mrs. D. Adrian Yates, Mr. and Mrs. Clark Will, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Noecker, Mrs. Felix Caldwell, Mrs. Florence Rector Jones, Mrs. Frank J. Bennett, Mrs. Barbara Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gilmore, Mr. and Mrs. A. Hulse Hays, Mrs. A. D. Newmyer, Miss Gretchen Moeller, Miss Margaret Mattinson, Mrs. Campbell McMorde, Mrs. H. D. Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. Lemuel Weldon, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas D. Harman, Mrs. Helen Gunning, Mrs. Howard B. Moore, Miss Abbe Mills Clarke, Mr. and Mrs. John Boggs, Frank Fischer, Will Hamilton and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Heffner of Circleville; Mr. and Mrs. Howard White of Cincinnati.

Guest Day Tea
Mrs. Charles E. Aspinall, state president, National Society United States Daughters of 1812, was guest of honor at the annual guest day tea of the Major John Boggs Chapter Monday at the home of Mrs. Bryce Briggs, North Scioto Street. The tea also marked the fourth anniversary of the chapter which was organized November 18, 1936, by Mrs. Orion King, founder and organizing president.

Mrs. Aspinall deeply interested the members and guests with her talk concerning "Noted Women of the 1812 Period" telling the romantic story of several and painting a delightful word picture of the dress of the time, with customs and historical facts of the day as an authentic background.

Mrs. John Boggs, chapter president, dispensed with the usual formal business session after presenting Mrs. Aspinall.

Tea was served in the dining room during the social hour. Mrs. Aspinall and Mrs. King, state historian, presiding at the table of beautiful appointments. A bowl of rose and white chrysanthemums flanked with ivory tapers in triple-branch candelabra centered the table, a similar arrangement being used on the buffet.

Mrs. Briggs was assisted by Mrs. William L. Mack, state chairman of credentials and registration, and her two daughters, Mrs. Forrest Brown, of New Philadelphia and Miss Benadine Yates, of the home.

Several guests from Columbus and Chillicothe were present in addition to members and guests from the Circleville community.

Walnut P-T. A.
One hundred and sixty-five members and guests gathered Monday in Walnut Township School auditorium for the November session of the Parent-Teacher Association of the school.

The group decided to purchase two batons for the newly organized band of the school which is under the direction of Miss Elizabeth Reber.

Conservation League To Present 'Hans Brinker'

If you had a fortune in gold pieces, amounting to as much as a thousand guilders in Hollandish money buried somewhere in your yard, no one knows where, what would you do? Would you dig up the entire lawn and garden (if you had a garden) until you found it? Or would you wait till you had some idea or clue as to the approximate place where the gold was hidden and just dig there?

This is one of the problems that Hans Brinker and his sister, Gretel, have to solve in the stirring play, "Hans Brinker or the Silver Skates" which is coming to Circleville under sponsorship of The Child Conservation League. It is a Clare Tree Major Children's Theatre production and this famous children's story by Mary Mapes Dodge has been dramatized by Mrs. Major as well as staged by her.

Commenting on Mrs. Major's coming production Mrs. Tom Renick, league president, said: "There are tales of lost or buried fortunes behind many families in every community and when money is suddenly found or claimed by rightful heirs, it creates great excitement and always means a front page story."

"Today, money or the lack of it still is news, just as it was in the days when 'Hans Brinker or the Silver Skates' was originally written. The 'pots of gold' on the radio and the 'bingo' games in the picture houses, attest to the public interest in cash rewards or prizes."

"But we who are sponsoring this living stage classic feel that Clare Tree Major, in her Children's Theatre, brings to the boys and girls of Circleville and Pickaway County a prize to substantially greater value than money, in the entertainment and inspirational qualities which leave their impression on the child minds long after the production itself has come and gone."

"Hans Brinker, as depicted in Mrs. Major's dramatization of the famous story," declared Mrs. Renick, "is a clean-cut type of outdoor boy who is willing and eager to work for a living, to help his parents, just as many of our young people are doing today. His sister, Gretel, is just as desirous of doing what she can to help about the home. Money is shown not to be the all-important thing in life, necessary though it is."

"As the story unfolds, we are held in suspense, and, at the same time, influenced by the attitude of these young people as they face

CROSBY RETURNS
With a minimum of trumpets and fanfare, Bing Crosby will slip into his old groove in the Music Hall Thursday, bringing with him a carload of celebrities including Connie Boswell, Joel McCrea, William Frawley and Winky Manone. Bob Burns, the Music Mads, and John Scott Trotter's orchestra will welcome Bing back to the weekly broadcasts over the NBC red network at 9 p. m.

POWER, ANNABELLA
Tyron Power and his wife, Annabella, make their first duo appearance in the Radio Theatre when they do "The Rage of Manhattan" on Monday. With Cecil B. DeMille as producer, the full-hour dramatic show will be carried by the Columbia network at 9 p. m.

Tyron Power and Annabella have never before appeared together in a full-hour radio drama.

Nervous Restless Girls!

Cranky? Restless? Can't sleep? Tired easily? Because of female functional "disorders" causing monthly distress? Then try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Pinkham's Compound is famous for helping such rundown, nervous conditions. Made especially for women. WORTH TRYING! Any drugstore.

The Radio Theatre's policy of having famous husbands and wives appear together fitted in nicely in the case of the Powers. Fredric March and Florence Eldridge, Jack Benny and Mary Livingstone, and Robert Taylor and Barbara Stanwyck are a few of the well-known married couples who have appeared for Mr. DeMille.

RADIO BRIEFS
Maureen Walker lands the job of featured vocalist on Horace Heidt's "Pot O' Gold" and Treasure Chest" programs.

Told that he was to guest on Info Please, Fred Allen cracked; "Bet that'll make Jack Benny mad. He couldn't even get on Quiz Kids."

State Title At Stake; Massillon, Canton Meet

By Larry Newman

COLUMBUS, Nov. 12—Ohio's twin titans of the gridiron—the Terrible Tigers of Massillon and the burly Bulldogs of Canton McKinley—will decide the Buckeye scholastic football title question Saturday afternoon before more than 23,000 fans at Massillon's spacious stadium.

There are none who can question the right of these two well-drilled colorful elevens to clash for the mythical schoolboy championship. Massillon has triumphed in 32 consecutive games and 76 out of its last 79 starts while Canton's record is second only to that of the defending champions. The Bulldogs this season have won eight in nine games, only a tie marring a perfect record.

Massillon's praises have been chanted often before. Paul "Bucky" Brown's team has scored 443 points in winning nine in a row. The Tiger goal line is uncrossed. McKinley has racked up 331 points while nine opponents have scored 46 points.

Leading the McKinley attack will be Athie Garrison, scintillating Negro halfback, who has scored 146 points for second place among the state's scholastic scorers. Massillon's leading scorer is likewise a Negro star—Horace Gilman, all-Ohio end for two seasons and a certain choice again this season. However, he isn't alone in the Tiger spotlight. The team is star-studded and strikes with a precision that usually breaks the spirit of the opposition.

While Massillon and Canton prepare to settle the title issue, Ohio's twenty-odd unbeaten teams moved towards the season's close and traditional battles that threatened to soil perfect records.

The last week end saw at least four of those unbeaten and untied records go by the boards. Newark fell before Canton Timken to end an eight-game streak while Bexley was held to a scoreless tie by Washington C. H., but was unscathed on throughout the season.

Columbus North was tied by Columbus South while unbeaten Arlington was rudely upset in its final game by Rawson, 13-6.

Massillon, Powhatan, Mentor and Bexley continued as the only unscathed teams with impressive victories. Powhatan had no trouble trouncing Mt. Pleasant, 40-0; Massillon crushed Youngstown East.

CINCINNATI WINS 17-13 BY VIRTUE OF FUMBLE

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Nov. 12—A double fumble in the waning minutes of play today enabled the Cincinnati Bengals to chalk up a 17-13 victory over Boston in an America Professional Football League game.

The Bengals had marched 58 yards to the Boston two when Iman Blackaby fumbled. Boston recovered but fumbled in turn on the same play and Peter Gustavas fell on the ball for a Cincinnati touchdown.

Previously fumbles had counted heavily in touchdown drives for each team after they had battled through a scoreless first half.

PECKINPAUGH IS DUBBED AS NEW INDIAN MANAGER

CLEVELAND, Nov. 12—The Cleveland Indians will have a new manager by tonight, with Roger Peckinpaugh generally understood to be the choice.

Ever since Oscar Vitt was discharged a couple of weeks ago the chief speculation of the baseball world has been the question of his successor. Vitt was fired as a result of the now famous "June rebellion," in which more than half of the Indians went to Alva Bradley, president of the Cleveland Baseball Co., and said:

"We can't win for Oscar Vitt." Despite the fact that the Tribe went on an almost unprecedented winning streak, they finished second—by one game—to the Detroit Tigers in the American League race. Vitt obviously was out.

Vitt's dismissal was announced at a club director's meeting last month, but Bradley at that time refused to name his successor. The matter rested until today, with various names mentioned and put forward by Cleveland's numerous downtown managers.

Chief among the possibilities, besides Peckinpaugh were Luke Sewell, Indian coach and former catcher, and Rogers Hornsby. Also mentioned was a dark horse, whose name was not revealed.

"Hearts, Minds Of People Nation's First Line Of Defense"

With explosive fireworks bursting intermittently overhead, Circleville's patriotic organizations, its High School and Veterans of Foreign Wars bands, marched through downtown streets Monday night in celebration of Armistice Day.

The parade, which formed on East Main Street in front of Memorial Hall, included the Veterans of Foreign Wars band, the V. F. W. and Auxiliary, the Elks, the American Legion and Auxiliary and the American Legion Drum Corps, the Circleville High School band and the Eagles.

A strong wind drove many of the spectators to the shelter of buildings adjoining the streets as the parade moved.

"Hope for peace, and appreciation for America's free institutions and a dedication of ourselves to American democracy," constituted the theme of the principle address by Eli Jensen, of Springfield, past Commander of the Department of Ohio, American Legion, in Memorial Hall.

Recalling conditions which followed the last World War, the speaker pointed to the liberties of American democracy as evidence of the struggles of men who believed in the rights of individuals over the rights of the state.

Underlining charged "The conflict which rages openly in Europe, and underneath in America is a conflict between the rights of the state and the rights of the individual," he declared. He charged the forces of Moscow with attempting to undermine the minds of American youth with Communist propaganda, and labeled Hitler and Stalin as the "maniacs" of Europe.

Mr. Jensen told an audience which nearly filled the lower section of Memorial Hall and sprinkled through the balcony that he favored the National Defense Program as being instrumental in combating the forces of totalitarianism, but said he did not believe the Army and the Navy constituted America's first line of defense. "Our first line of defense lies in the hearts and the minds of the American people," he exclaimed.

He closed his talk by suggesting that Americans think of Armistice Day as a day of thanksgiving for the free institutions which they enjoy, and that they rededicate themselves to the "ideals of American life."

Music On Program

The program, sponsored by the Elks Lodge and the American Legion, opened with the audience singing America. The Rev. L. C. Sherburne, pastor of the St. Philip's Episcopal Church, delivered the invocation which followed. The Elks double quartet sang "God Bless America" as a special musical number, while the V. F. W. band completed the musical portion of the program.

The program closed with the audience singing the National Anthem, the Rev. Sherburne delivering the benediction. Andrew Thomas of the Elks acted as master of ceremonies.

WILLKIE SPEAKS TO FOLLOWERS

G. O. P. Nominee Asks That Bitterness Be Ended; Unity Stressed

NEW YORK, Nov. 12—Wendell L. Willkie's 22,000,000 followers were expected today to respond readily and eagerly to his suggestion that they constitute themselves a "vigorous, loyal and public-spirited opposition" during the third New Deal.

Speaking to them as titular head of the party, the defeated Republican presidential candidate urged his followers in a nation-wide broadcast last night to bury any rancor and bitterness aroused by the campaign in the interests of national unity.

But the fight for the principles enunciated in the 1940 campaign must never be relaxed, he warned, in order to preserve two party rule during the present war crisis.

Willkie again pledged his full cooperation in the national defense program and towards obtaining all possible aid for Great Britain. But he warned that the continually rising national debt carried with it the danger of inflation as an immediate eventuality.

He suggested that the many Willkie clubs and organizations of independent Democrats formed in behalf of his presidential candidacy carry on their work but not in his name.

And by indirection, he rejected suggestions that he be given a behalf of his presidential candidacy.

In England, Willkie explained, members of the cabinet are colleagues of equal rank with the prime minister. But in the United States, he asserted, they are merely administrative subordinates of the President. Hence no amount of Republicans in the cabinet, he contended, could insure two party rule.

To counter-act the threat of inflation, Willkie urged the following five steps:

"1. All federal expenditures, except those for national defense and necessary relief, ought to be cut to the bone and below the bone.

"2. The building of new plants and new machinery for the defense program should be accomplished as far as possible by private capital.

"3. Taxes should be levied so as to approach as nearly as possible the pay-as-you-go plan.

"4. Taxes and government restrictions should be adjusted to take the brakes off private enterprise.

"5. Our government must change its punitive attitude toward both little and big business men."

Acknowledging the thousands of messages he has received urging him to continue his fight, Willkie said:

"I want to see all of us dedicate ourselves to the principles for which we have fought. My fight for those principles has just begun."

SOME Washington observers are predicting Roosevelt cabinet changes involving Henry L. Stimson, secretary of war; Frances Perkins, secretary of labor and only woman in the cabinet, and Frank Walker, postmaster general, who recently succeeded James A. Farley. All are expected to go soon.

Kiwanis Club To Offer Magician Wednesday Eve

Raymond Scheetz and Company present the third number of the Kiwanis Club's Fall Festival series scheduled for Wednesday at 8 o'clock in the high school auditorium. Proceeds of the series go to the club's fund for underprivileged children.

All the world, according to Mr. Scheetz, loves to be fooled, and he has specialized for ten years in mystifying the public for the fun he and they can get out of it.

With a whole truck-load of elaborate paraphernalia, he and Mrs. Scheetz and his assistant set out to give a magic show that is different, exciting, and full of surprises. He uses some of the newest and oldest mechanical contrivances, both from this country and abroad; makes animals of various kinds appear where animals are not supposed to be, and in a scene of arresting beauty presents several trained pigeons at an unexpected moment.

Mr. Scheetz is known as the man who sees with his finger-tips, and one of his featured numbers consists in making the audience wonder if his powers of sight have actually been transferred to his fingers. There seems no other explanation, Mrs. Scheetz, attractive and deft, is his capable partner in many of the more difficult scenes and his other assistant completes the trio to make possible many amazing and apparently impossible accomplishments. Some of their numbers are as follows: "The Enchanted Cottage", introducing a maid and her dog;

"The Collapsible Duck." "The Shadeless Sunshade." "The Chinese Ink Cabinet." "The Bunny that Come out of the Woods", and so on.

The Scheetz Company carries extensive and colorful stage settings and equipment, so that the program is presented against a delightful background. Mr. Scheetz is especially fine in handling the children who always want to take part in some of the scenes, and he gives both them and the audience a good time as a result. As is usual with magic shows, this will probably draw one of the largest crowds of the series.

BRITISH ENVOY TO QUIT; CHOICE FOR JOB STUDIED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12—Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy's resignation is due to be made and accepted very shortly, it was reported in well-informed circles today.

It is not clear at this time who will succeed him in the important and difficult London post.

First call, according to talk around the State Department, will go to William C. Bullitt, still officially listed as ambassador to France. Anthony Biddle, ambassador to Poland is mentioned in connection with the London job, as is Joseph E. Davies, former ambassador to Russia.

It was understood that Bullitt wrote his resignation shortly after his return from France in July. His letter is still in the President's hands. The resignation has not been accepted. On the contrary, he has been under a good deal of unofficial pressure from high places to take over the London embassy, on Ambassador Kennedy's long-expected resignation.

Bullitt's closest friends disagree on what his decision will be.

Washington Merry-Go Round

retary of Agriculture stopped last August, and his expenses since then have been heavy. In fact, he doesn't have quite enough on hand to keep the children in college.

So the new Vice President probably will write a few magazine articles and fill a few lecture engagements.

CAPITAL THAFT

At luncheon together the other day were Charlie Chaplin, Walter Winchell, Ernest Cuneo and Assistant Secretary of State Adolf Berle. Remarked Cuneo afterward: "I was a mere ego in a whirlwind of super-egos. I practically had to blow a whistle just to insert one word in the conversation."

Under Secretary of State Sumner Welles listened to election returns until 4:15 a. m. but was down at his desk reading a telegram from Greece by 9:30 a. m. . . . F. D. R. telephoned New York attorney Morris Ernst on election night to thank him for the swell job done by his daughter Constance in helping put on the Democratic radio show from Hollywood . . . Few people knew it, but President Roosevelt had a head cold during the last few days of his campaign. It dragged him down during his Cleveland speech, and it was because of this that the presidential train from Cleveland to Washington crept along at a snail's pace. Dr. McIntire, the White House physician, wanted Roosevelt to rest and knew that if the train got to Washington early in the morning he would be up and atwork. So the train arrived at noon.

EXIT FANNY

Miss Frances Perkins, idealistic but sometimes inept Secretary of Labor, will not be in the third Roosevelt cabinet.

She will be replaced as part of the President's plan to put an end to AFL-CIO warring and to bring about unification of the two organizations. No. 1 on the President's list for Miss Perkins' successor is George Harrison, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks and a vigorous advocate of labor peace. With Dan Tobin, head of the AFL teamsters and a former White House secretary, Harrison was active in the 1939 negotiations to bring the two camps together. The railway brotherhoods are independent of both.

Miss Perkins is on moderately good terms with both the AFL and CIO, and actually her department is one of the best run in the Government. But neither laborites nor industry give her any credit for this, and she also has a failing for saying the wrong thing at the wrong time.

Inside fact is that Miss Perkins offered her resignation last spring, but Roosevelt declined it to avoid a scramble for the job with a campaign approaching.

Now the way is clear to use her replacement to further labor peace, which he is determined to effect as part of the national defense program. John L. Lewis, No. 1 obstacle to this, already has eliminated himself when he bolted the CIO and plumped for Willkie.

Other Labor Department changes contemplated are the promotion of Dan Tracy, former AFL vice president, from Second to First Assistant Secretary, and appointment of Van Bittner, head of the West Virginia United Mine Workers (whom Lewis tried to pressure into supporting Willkie), to Tracy's post.

NOTE—AFL insiders predict that Lewis' disappearance as CIO potentate will be followed by the replacement of William Green as AFL head.

MASONS TO JOIN IN ANNIVERSARY OF CONSISTORY

Between 90 and 100 Pickaway County Masons will attend the 40th anniversary celebration of Scioto Consistory, Valley of Columbus, Ancient Accepted Scottish Rite, to be held at the Masonic Temple, Columbus, Wednesday through Friday.

The Rev. Chester Burge Emerson, dean of Trinity Cathedral, Cleveland, high ranking dignitary in Masonic orders, will be the principal speaker. Dr. Emerson was selected as speaker for the three-day occasion by Robert W. Taylor, 33rd degree honorary member of the Supreme Council, Scottish Rite, and right eminent grand prelate of the grand encampment of Knights Templar of the United States.

During the consistory reunion three 33rd degree Masons will be among the ten charter members to be honored. Numerous degrees will be conferred during the anniversary celebration, at which John E. Powell, Columbus, commander-in-chief of Scioto Consistory, will preside.

Scottish Rite Masons throughout Ohio are expected to attend.

WEATHER KEEPS GERMAN PLANES FROM ISLE AREA

LONDON, Nov. 12—As the result of severe icing conditions and squally weather no German raiders ventured over the British Isles during the night, the Air Ministry disclosed today.

All Nazi attacks ceased at 9 p. m., and until 6 a. m. No enemy planes had been sighted, a communiqué reported. Evening attacks prior to 9 p. m. were light, and only a few planes bombed London.

In one London district, a fire was started and several persons reportedly were trapped in the wreckage of the blazing buildings.

Reports from the southeast coast and eastern counties stated that several dwelling houses were wrecked in the early evening raids, and that a few persons had been killed and injured.

SCHOOL BOARD ACCEPTS RATES SET FOR YEAR

Failure Of Special Levy Causes Action By Educators

Frank Fischer, superintendent of Circleville schools, said Tuesday that the Circleville Board of Education in a special meeting had voted unanimously to accept the school tax rate for the present year as proposed by the County Budget Commission.

The action fixes the rate for school purposes within the 10-mill limitation at 2.05 mills. Previously the board had asked for its legal quota of 2.36 mills. On a tax duplicate of approximately $9,000,000 the difference in school operating funds will amount to about $2,700.

The action of the board was occasioned because of the failure by a narrow margin at the election November 5 of the proposed three-mill levy for the city of Circleville. "As in the past," said Mr. Fischer, "it is the desire of the Circleville Board of Education to cooperate to the fullest extent with other governmental authorities in tax matters, and the practice of strictest economies."

AT CONVENTION Dr. V. D. Kerns plans to leave Tuesday evening for Louisville, Ky., to attend a meeting of the Southern Medical Association during the next few days.
